6. A board meeting will be held in January, May, and September one hour before the regular monthly meeting.
7. We will run 100 copies of both the Maternity BVM Death Records and the Manteno Cemetery Book.

March 6. 1987

We currently have 46 members. The Everton Workshop will be at 7 p.m. April 21, 1987, at Asbury United Methodist Church.

Discussion was held on the upcoming publication of the Maternity BVM Death Records. A motion was made and carried to charge $7.50 for the Maternity books.

Patriot Index. Volume III (1986). Index to S^Pouses, will be purchased in the memory of Nelda Nusbaum, Member $20, who recently passed away.

The program was a tape on "Ellis Island". One-half of our population are descendants of immigrants who passed through Ellis Island. During the peak period from 1900 to 1914, approximately 5,000 immigrants were processed each day. 100,000,000 Americans can trace their history to this port. The first immigration law was passed in 1819, but not until 1882 were immigrant regulations made uniform.

During the period of 1885 to 1890 Castle Garden was the immigration station. In 1890 the Ellis Island site was chosen. Samuel Ellis bought the island and in 1808 sold it to the Federal Government. On New Year's Day, 1892, Ellis Island was officially dedicated and Annie Moore was the first person processed. For being the first immigrant, Annie was given a ten dollar gold piece.

On June 15, 1897, Ellis Island burned to the ground and it was 2 1/2 years before it was re-opened in 1900.

Two important qualifications were needed by the immigrants; to be disease free and create the impression they could make a living in their new country. Names were always a problem. Not all immigrants could spell their names so they were written as they sounded.

More than 2/3 of the people entering this country came through New York. There were over 70 other immigrant stations besides Ellis Island. At the close of World War II, people wanted to reduce the number of immigrants and a literacy test was added to the requirements. In 1929 the quota system was initiated.

In November of 1954 the last Immigrant passed through Ellis Island and it was declared surplus property. An era had ended!

Ways to determine if your ancestors came through Ellis Island:

1. Investigate family sources and talk to relatives.
2. Passports and other legal papers.

Date and port of arrival will be found in Naturalization Papers. Port cities are the logical place to look for the Naturalization Papers. Those immigrants who served in the military service would often become naturalized citizens if they were honorably discharged.

1815 through 1915 was the period most immigrants came to the United States.

April 4, 1987

We currently have 50 members. Upcoming publications which should be available in the next two months will be the Maternity BVM Death Records and North Central Cemetery Book.

The program was a continuation of a tape on French Canadians.

THE NEW COURT HOUSE

Taken from The Kankakee Gazette, September 4, 1873

Under the competent supervision of G. W. Jennings the wood work on the new structure has been pushed ahead rapidly, notwithstanding he has labored under the disadvantage of waiting for material. Most of the carvings, mouldings, &c., have been done in Chicago and have not been available when just wanted. The workmen are now engaged in the court room and will be through by Saturday night to make way for the painters. The plasterers and stuccoers have finished up the walls and ceilings and the grainers are plying their brushes and combs with nervous energy, and all the artisans are apparently using their best endeavors to get the building off of their hands at the earliest possible moment. The flag staff will surmount the cupola this week and the American flag will be thrown to the breeze next Sunday at the altitude of 125 feet.

The new building is bright, cheery and tasteful in its construction and will equal in point of comfort and convenience any other building of similar size used for a like purpose in the State.

Though the building will have passed from the hands of the contractor, Mr. Kenega informs us that the Circuit Court will not hold its forthcoming session there, notwithstanding some of the other city papers have so willed it.

THE NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH

An Imposing Addition to the City's Architecture

Taken from The Kankakee Gazette, July 23, 1874.

As briefly announced in the Gazette, last week, the work of preparation for the erection of a new Roman Catholic church in this city progresses rapidly. The new edifice will occupy the site of the present structure which is being moved to make room for it. It will be built of stone at a cost of $20,000. The plans are drawn by Noel Potvin, of Chicago. The entire length will be 117 feet; the facade will be 63 feet wide and will present three steeples, the center one 148 feet high. The auditorium will be 40 feet from floor to ceiling and will be arranged to accommodate 600 people. Our informant tells us that "as the population increases" (a consummation not unreasonable to expect) gallery room sufficient to seat a considerable number will be provided. The style of the church is Gothic.

At a meeting of the members held after Mass last Sunday morning, three additional trustees were elected for the purpose of aiding the two already in office in the management of the finances and exercising a general supervision over the work of building. The new trustees are Messrs. Joseph Gelino, Louis Goudreau, Noel Brosseau and Mayor Richard Lavery, the old trustees, constitute the full board. It was decided to locate the new structure on the east side of the society's church lots in order to have enough room on the west side for the erection of a parsonage.

Over $3,000 in cash and a large subscription furnish the necessary funds for commencing the work of construction.

On the 15th of August the society purpose having a grand picnic at Perry's grove for the benefit of the church building fund. Everything that can be devised to make this occasion a complete success, financially and socially, will be put into practical effect, and it is safe to say that the members of St. Rose's church will accomplish all they design.

THE FIRE SCOURGE

Two Residence and the Planing Mill in Flames!

Loss, About $30,000

Taken from The Kankakee Gazette, July 16, 1874

Twice has the fire alarm been sounded through the streets of Kankakee since last week's Gazette went to press, and twice have our citizens responded with prompt action and effective work to do urgent appeals.

On Thursday morning of last week, Mr. J. K. Eagle chanced to look in the direction of H. K. Wheeler's residence a few rods in the rear of the Gazette office, and discovered the entire roof shrouded in smoke. He instantly gave the alarm and hundreds of hurrying feet were quickly turned in the direction of the cry. A pall of dense grey smoke hung over the house, apparently issuing from the region of the kitchen chimney. Axes and picks were brought into requisition and soon the covering was torn away and the locality of the fire discovered.

BUCKETS WERE BROUGHT

by the dozen and filled from the nozzle of about 150 feet of hose attached to Kenaga & Letourneau's force pump at the warehouse not far distant. These were kept constantly passing to and fro, laden and empty, and water enough was poured upon the burning roof to float a good sized steamer.

THE MOST EFFECTIVE SERVICE,

however, was probably rendered by a small garden force pump which was carried to the roof and kept constantly throwing a small stream of water upon the smoldering flames among the rafters. A half-hour's hard work gave the willing workers the mastery and the danger was past. Nearly all the furniture and wearing apparel was removed from the house. A quantity of clothing in a small room near the region of the fire was badly damaged and some loss was sustained in the destruction of small articles of vertu. The loss cannot be far from $300, and falls upon Mrs. W. R. Storrs, the owner of the property.

A "FIRE FIEND."

Among the hardest workers on the roof was Sam Kenaga, the postmaster of this city. In his stocking feet he clung to the shingles like a turtle to its shell and stood the drenching like a natural born fireman. Sam is always a willing and effective worker at a fire and ought to be elected chief engineer of the "Kankakee Fire Department" - No. 11. Others labored zealously to save the property and deserve notice, but they were not veterans like Sam.

The second alarm was on Friday morning, about half past three, and announced the DESTRUCTION OF THE PLANING MILL.

The alarm was not general, further than a fierce shrieking of several locomotive whistles, but this is a noise to which we have become so accustomed that one is not likely to be aroused from slumber by it. The cry of "fire," or the ringing of a bell would be far more effective. Hundreds of our citizens, some of them living within two blocks of the burning property, knew nothing of the devastation wrought until they reached their business places. By all, the sad announcement was received with deep regret. The property consumed was valuable and a benefit to the city. It was owned by esteemed citizens and it threw a large number of men out of employment.

MRS. KRUGER'S LOSS.

Furthermore, our sympathies were drawn upon by the loss to the widow, Mrs. Kruger, whose home, adjoining the mill, was so remorselessly destroyed in a few brief minutes. But a few weeks previous, she followed her husband to the grave, and was alone in the world with a family looking to her for sustenance. There was an insurance of $700 on the house, $200 of which is offset by a mortgage. Her net loss will not come short of $1000.

A SMALL BARN

in the rear of the Planing mill was also burned. The loss will not exceed $300. There was an insurance on this property of $100.

HOW THE PLANING MILL CAUGHT FIRE

will perhaps never be know. The flames were first discovered in the roof in the vicinity of the engineer room, but no fire had been left when the engineer quit his post the evening previous. Accident or malice on the part of some one is alone responsible, in all probability.

It took hard work to save the buildings opposite the street, south of the mill. The intense heat scorched the sides and roofs and all but drove the defenders of the property from their stations. Had this building burned, other property adjoining would certainly have been destroyed and a dire calamity would have resulted to the city.

THE MORNING WAS STILL.

A calmer or more peaceful condition of the atmosphere could not have been chosen for the fire. But still as it was large pieces of burning shingle were carried nearly half a mile, and considering the extreme dryness of everything It is remarkable that the conflagration was confined to its actual limits.

The dwelling house on the east side of the street from the burning mill was in great danger a portion of the time and the inmates removed everything from the inside. Fortunately, the flames were not allowed to cross the street in either direction and this alone prevented a wholesale destruction.

THE PROPERTY DESTROYED.

The plans for several buildings in course of erection by the Planing Mill Company were burned, including the drawing for a new school house at Gibson, Ford County, and the draftings for Tom Kerr's new residence.

The former can be supplied by Randall, the Chicago architect, while the loss of the latter will not prove of great inconvenience on account of the advanced progress of the work on the building.

Several valuable kits of tools belonging to the employees of the mill were burned. John Volkman, Alderman Hendricks, Fred Whitmore, and others, including J. C. Mateer, President of the company, lost in this manner.

Several thousand feet of dry lumber and prepared material, including sash, doors, mouldings, cornice, &c., &c., were also destroyed.

The machinery is hopelessly ruined, of course. The mill was well stocked and a large amount of money would be required to replace the loss in this respect.

The contents of the safe - books, insurance papers, notes, &c., were preserved intact. The aggregate loss to the company will not be far from $25,000, on which there is an

of $9,500 distributed as follows:

On the mill building	$2,300
On machinery	5,200
On stock	800
On shed north of mill	200
On stock in shed	1,000
Total	$9,500

IN GENERAL.

We do not know whether the company will rebuilt. It is said that several citizens have expressed their desire to assist the unfortunate losers in restoring the mill to its former usefulness. It is sincerely to be hoped that the mill will be again in running order ere many months. We cannot afford to lose so valuable an enterprise.

We are informed that a lady living near the scene of the fire, had such strong presentiments that the mill would burn before morning that it was utterly impossible for her to sleep and at various times during the night she went to the window expecting to see a fulfillment of her fears. The last time she looked the mill was in flames.

There should be some way established of giving

A GENERAL ALARM.

Without a fire department, it is frequently necessary, or advisable, to have a sufficient force on hand to render aid in saving endangered property. The city might effect some arrangement for the ringing of the city hall bell. If the bell is not considered sufficiently large for the purpose desired, a regular fire bell ought to be mounted.

THEY ARE 'TALKING' THE MATTER OVER.

The late fires have had the effect of arousing our citizens to a certain extent, and it is some satisfaction to know that suggestions, even, are being made in various quarters. Kankakee has been a standing joke for the villages round about long enough. It is time now that something practical be done.

MOMENCE MELANGE

Taken from The Kankakee Gazette, August 20, 1874

A correspondent of the Reporter, at Grant, says: There are now some eight or ten buildings under way of construction, the most prominent of which are Messrs. M. R. Parish & Co.'s and Astle & Scramlin's store buildings. Emory Odell is also putting up a livery stable, and several other citizens are building and repairing.

The same correspondent says that Merwin Seager has purchased Mr. Farrington's interest in Pettit & F's business, and will hereafter devote his personal attention to his new interest. Mr. Seager is one of a highly respectable and popular family and will attract custom.

Several weeks ago the cars set a fire in Orson Kelsey's field, in the slough, and the fire has been burning in the turf ever since. Sunday the stiff southwest breeze blew the fire into the standing grass, and they had a big time there all the afternoon. The fire, before surrounded, burned about one-third of Kelsy's meadow, and then got over into Benjamin Lamport's field and burned about ten tons of uncut hay for him. Considerable fence and some hay was also burned for J. H. Alexander. The rain at night more likely put the fire out.

Mr. Batchelor has ceased to run the National Hotel, and Mr. Duvall has opened a hotel in the brick block north side of Front street. He calls it the "Duvall House".

Speaking of the recent Sunday night storm, the Report says: It rained from 11 o'clock till nearly morning. How much the rain will help the corn is hard to tell. Had it come four weeks ago, it would have made us a splendid crop of corn. The pastures will be benefited and the air purified, anyway. The lightning did considerable damage. The hay stacks of A. G. Searls, in his yard east of the barn were struck, and entirely destroyed, burning up about 30 tons of tame hay. His barn narrowly escaped. The hay was about one rod and a half from the barn and about three rods north of his grain stacks. The grain did not burn.

We notice a good many teams and gangs of hands going through the village on their way to the marshes to put up hay.

Burglars entered A. Burg's saloon last week at Momence and stole $45 worth of cigars.

Jacob Ruger has returned from Germany. A cottonwood tree, said to be the oldest In the vicinity of Momence, was struck by lightning during the recent Sunday night storm and split to the ground.

C. C. Campbell has the contract for building the Grant school house. His bid was $1,721.

FADED WRITING

From the Heart O'Wisconsin Genealogical Society Newsletter, June, 1986, comes the suggestion to use a black 75 watt electric light bulb In any lamb that casts light directly on the subject. The black light brings out dim copy.

Also, we are told that highlighting the faded writing with yellow plastic or yellow marker will help to make it more readable.

History of Kankakee.

BY W. H. BRISTOL.

The following History of the City of Kankakee, from its earliest settlement to the present time, it is believed will add materially to the value of this volume. In regard to the authorship, the statement will bear repetition here that Mr. Bristol is in every way competent for sash work and no doubt is entertained that his production will be favorably received. In addition to the articles prepared by him and noticed in the Introduction, may be mentioned several contributions to the Illinois State Gazetteer in 1857, including a highly complimented notice of Kankakee, and likewise similar articles for the Gazetteer of the United States published at Philadelphia, Pa. in 1859, which were pronounced valuable and interesting. -- A. L. H.

The City of Kankakee is situated on the Chicago Branch of the Illinois Central railroad, 56 miles south of Chicago, and has over 5, 000 population. It occupies territory on both sides of the Kankakee river, and is the lang. eat town between Chicago and Cairo. The original town was laid off into lots and blocks in June, 1853, and called Bourbonnais. In May, 1853, the people of the new county of Kankakee, then just organized, selected this place for the capital of the County;

In the year 1854 Thos. R. Vanmeter, Charles and D. C. Linsley, Alvin Newton and Henry Bacon laid off what is known as Vanmeter's, Linsley, Newton's and Bacon's Addition, lying west of the Central railroad. In 1855 Edward Chappel laid off that part of the city known as South Kankakee, lying on the south side of the river. In the same year Samuel M. Ayers and L. Boyd laid off the South Addition to Kankakee. Knight's Addition, also lying south of the river, was laid off by Solon Knight. The largest addition was laid off by Ketchum and Gray, and was and still is called the Associate's Addition. It lies mostly east and north of the Court House. Vanmeter and True's addition, laid off in 1854 lies east of the Associate's Addition. The name of the original town, Bourbonnais, was changed by an act of the Legislature, February 15th, 1855, to Kankakee City, and several years subsequently, to that of the City of Kankakee, by which title it has ever since been designated.

In 1858 Ketchum and Gray surveyed and platted the beautiful cemetery lying north of the city. These same liberal and enterprising gentlemen also donated the Court House block to the county, and gave 115,000 in cash towards building the Court House. They also built, at their own expense, the arched bridge over the Central railroad and Court street, so long called the "railroad bridge." Its cost was $6,000.

The city of Kankakee has an area of a little more than two miles square. The city was incorporated in February, 1855, and on the second Tuesday of April ensuing the first election of city officers was held, resulting as follows: C. R. Starr, Pres., Hiram Whittemore and Clark R. Strong, Trustees of the first ward, and Samuel L. Knight and Cyrus B. Ingraham, Trustees of the second ward.

During the session of the Illinois Legislature, in the winter of 1850 and '51, the charter of the I. C. R. R. was granted; in the summer of 1851 the road was located; July, 1853, the first freight was received here, being a consignment of lumber to Mr. Solin Knight; and in the summer and fall of the latter year the Railroad company erected their freight house and passenger depot.

In September, 1853, Mr. Samuel L. Knight was appointed by President Pierce the first postmaster for the city, but the name of the post-office was called Clarksville.

Elder James Gay in 1848, A. M. Wylie in 1849, and Edward Chappel in 1850, were the first settlers that occupied territory within the present city limits.

Chas. R. Starr in July, 1853, and Hon. Ara Bartlett in September of the same year, were the first regularly settled attorneys in Kankakee.

The first store erected here was the Clark & Robert's store, on Court street, south side, on the site now occupied by the new Pallissard building. It was built in the summer of 1853.

Mr. A. B. True, in the fall of 1852, had the credit of erecting the first dwelling house. During the building of the court house, in 1854, Mr. True's house was converted into a public stopping-place, and was called the "Half-Mile House," being so named on account of its supposed distance from the court house site.

The first term of the Kankakee county circuit court was held in the upper rooms of the (then) Central freight house, in Nov., 1853, Judge Henderson, of Joliet, presiding. The second term of this court was held in the atone part of the old Vanmeter Hotel, near Entrance avenue, Judge Randall, of Joliet presiding.

After this the new court house, built at a cost of $27,000, was occupied by court and the county officers.

It has been asserted by some that Dr. J. M. Mack was the first physician -- we know he was a very early settler -- but it is quite possible that they forget that Dr. C. W. Knott was practicing in this region as early as 1846, who, although he resided at Bourbonnais, gave a large share of medical attention to his patients in Kankakee, when a "Kankakee" came to exist.

Speaking of Dr. Knott, we are reminded of the times, as described by him to us many years ago, when the cholera visited this portion of Illinois. The Doctor says it made its appearance at Bourbonnais in June, 1851. A party of 20 or 30 French immigrants from Canada came to Bourbonnais on the lat. bringing with them the body of a child that had died of cholera the day before, at Joliet. The next morning, one of the number was stricken down by the terrible scourge. The weather being very warm, these immigrants lodged in Mr. Vasseur's barn. By 11 o'clock the same day, eight or ten more were taken, and before 10 o'clock that night fifteen of the number had been seized, and all died. The panic created was such, that when a member of a family was stricken down, the rest fled and left the helpless victim to perish alone. Travelers passing to and fro, between Joliet and the Wabash valley. went 20 or 30 miles out of their direct course to avoid the cholera district of Bourbonnais. The cholera was more or less prevalent in this region for three years, and the Doctor affirms that he was nearly all that time the only physician attending cholera patients.

When the city was planned and its prompt building up was projected, a lively hunt was made for proper materials, but some time elapsed before it was found that a great wealth of excellent building stone lay buried in the ground all around and underneath the coming city. At the time the Illinois Central Railroad was built through this place, nothing was known of the exhaustless beds of stone underlying the surface of the earth in this immediate locality. The stone for the railroad piers at the river crossing, for culverts and bridges up and down the road, for the Court street bridge, and even for the railroad culvert over Soldier Creek, was quarried down the river some five or six miles, in the town of Limestone, and was obtained at much trouble and expense; while stone of a superior quality, infinite in quantity, and as good as any in the State, existed but a few feet below the surface of the earth, even in the very locality of the Soldier Creek culvert.

The first lumber yard was opened up by Mr. Solon Knight in July, 1853; and in June, 1856, Messrs. Knight & Co. were the first to open the stone and lime business, on land in the northwestern part of the city, west of the Central track, and situated on both sides of Soldier Creek. They forthwith began to furnish the long-wished-for supplies, the ancient earth was delved into foot by foot, and the solid rock exhumed from its dark hiding-place, soon to swell in the fine proportions of stately edifices. In August, 1856, the company built a large lime kiln on C. D. Page's celebrated patent, which would burn 100 bushels per day. Since other and better ones have been constructed, with a capacity for burning 60,000 bushels per year, if required.

The annual shipments of stone and lime from the quarries average from 800

KANKAKEE CITY DIRECTORY

to 1,000 car loads, besides supplying a heavy home demand. There is also burnt and sold 40,000 bushels of lime per year. The business requires the constant employment of 20 or 30 workmen, whose yearly wages average from $15,000 to $18,000. The stone is a fine-grained, compact limestone, and is capable of fine finish and elaboration under the hammer and chisel. Suffice it to say, no better stone can be found in the State for all purposes.

On the 20th of June, 1854, John P. & E. P. Gamble located in Kankakee, and commenced blacksmithing and wagon making. They built the stone shops on Soldier Creek, on the road leading to Bourbonnais. Soon after, Mr. Drake became associated with them in business, under the name and style of J. P. Gamble & Co. Sept. 22d, 1854 E. P. Gamble died.

The first plow made in Kankakee was in March, 1855, and the first wagon was made in April following. In April 1856 the first carriage and buggy were made by the firm of Gamble & French.

The first church building erected was in 1854, by the Presbyterians, on the north side of Court street, between Dearborn and Indiana avenues. The Rev. Wm. B. Mack, father of Col. A. W. Mack, both deceased, was the first settled pastor of this church.

A careful account of newspaper journalism in Kankakee may not be out of place in a sketch of this kind, which is intended more as a historical statement than merely a literary production. The Kankakee Gazette, being the first newspaper published here, is entitled to the first recognition.

It was established about the 1st of August, 1853, by Augustine Chester,
