QUARTERLY/NEWSLETTER EXTRACTIONS

Military Pension Records:

The first U.S. Military Pension Law was passed in 1792. It provided aid to disabled veterans who had served in the Revolutionary War. Later pensions were extended to anyone who had served. In 1818, a veteran had to prove actual need; in 1820, a veteran had to provide need and submit a schedule of his estate, perhaps a copy of a deed showing that he had disposed of all his property. All veterans were granted pensions after 1828.

The 1836 Widow's Act provided that the widow of a Revolutionary War veteran could claim his pension. The widow had to prove relationship and establish that they had been married before the war ended. After 1854 widows were eligible for a pension regardless of the date of the marriage. Many widows who were eligible did not apply.

The Remarried Widow's Index is arranged alphabetically by the name of the remarried widow. Part 1 covers 1861 and before. Part II covers the period from the Civil War to World War I. Information given includes the name of the remarried widow, name of the veteran, the unit in which he served and his file or certificate number. Also, look under "M" for "Mrs." as when the clerk was not sure of a woman's first name, sometimes they would file them there. A pension claimed on behalf of a minor child included proof of the child's age and birth date. Fields Family Findings Genealogical Newsletter.

Civil War Union Army Medical Records:

Medical records of drafted and rejected men of the Civil War are available in the National Archives under Group Record #110. These records are arranged by Congressional Districts as of 1863. All men, whether drafted or rejected for the Union Army, should be found as recorded in the Medical Register of Examinations. The Family Tree. Vol. VII. No. 3.

Looking for a Ship Name?

If the person whose ship you are looking for became naturalized, then you should be able to find the name of the ship from that person's naturalization papers. (Remember, women became naturalized citizens with their husbands prior to 1923.)

If your ancestor was naturalized prior to 1906, you may have to search several places before you find naturalization papers. Before that date, a person could apply to a local, state or federal district to become naturalized. Contact the local courts, state courts and federal district courts in the area where your ancestor lived. In some cases, the court will still have the records, in others, the records may have been transferred to a local library or archive. Federal District Court Records may have been transferred to the National Archives.

After September 27, 1906, copies of naturalization papers were sent to the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) in Washington, DC. If your ancestor was naturalized after this date, you can write to INS, 425 Eye Street, NW, Washington, DC 20536. The Family Tree. Vol. VII. No. 3.

Great Newspaper Collection in Wisconsin

The State Historical Society of Wisconsin has the second largest collection of newspapers in the U.S. - surpassed only by that of the Library of Congress. It is national and spans the period from the 17th century to the present. More than 4000 titles are included and many are microfilmed and available by interlibrary loan. The Family Tree, Vol. VII. No. 2

Another Way to Decipher Tombstones

The best way to read those hard to read tombstones is with a mirror! A compact mirror or a cheap 5 x 7 one will do. Hold the mirror to the side of the transcription and reflect the sunlight onto it. The cross light picks up everything. It doesn't damage the stone. With thanks to Nancy Sorells, via V. Zimmerman. The Family Tree, Vol. VII, No. 2.

Crete Township Among First Settled Areas

Strategically located on the old Sauk Indian trail leading west. Crete township was one of the earliest areas settled by pioneers from the east. Farmers and tradesmen to do the necessary work for the farmers, such as cobblers, blacksmiths, and other artisans, had journeyed by Conestoga wagon from New England and other eastern sections to buy land to which the Pottawatomie Indians had relinquished their claims for $1.25 per acre

Thom Grove, the first settlement in the township, was established in 1833 by Major Price, William Osborn, and Asa Dade. A large party of settlers followed the next year.

Beebe Grove in the eastern part of the township was settled in 1835. This settlement was a stop on the mail route from Joliet to Crown Point, Indiana. Among the early settlers were Minorrie Beebe, for whom the grove was named and whose home served as post office, and Samuel Cushing, whose home served as post office, and Samuel Cushing, whose home was one of the prominent stations in the underground railroad.

Wood's Corners was settled by Willard Wood in 1836. He came from Vermont and became the area's first shoemaker, taught the first school, and built Wood's Tavern, the area's first frame building and first public house in 1848. Hewesburg was settled by Lunan Hewes in 1836. Another small settlement, Ednor, was noted for its water power sawmill Steger was founded in 1890 by John V. Steger, who owned and operated the village's one business, the Steger piano factory. German immigrants were prominent among the early settlers, including John O. Meier, John O. Piepenbrink, William Rinne, and John Diersen, all of whom arrived from 1848 to 1852.

The Chicago, Danville, and Vincennes railroad was built in 1869 by Joseph E. Young of Crown Point, Indiana, who bought the depot grounds and some 70 acres of land in the township. The first newspaper in Crete, the Enterprise, was published in 1878 by Charles E. Carter. Will Grundy Quarterly, Volume XV, No. 4.

BUCKINGHAM CHURCH HOLDS FINAL SERVICE

Taken from the Kankakee Daily Journal June 26, 1997.

Although the doors of the Buckingham United Methodist Church will close Sunday, the small congregation is determined to keep the ministry of the 116 year old church alive through joining other community churches and using the proceeds of the church building sale to benefit several non-profit organizations.

Although it was a very tough decision, the members decided in January to close the doors of the church on the last Sunday in June. Over the years the membership has gradually decreased to the point where only about 20 people attend services every Sunday. The deciding factor in closing may have been because no children attended Sunday School this past fall

In an effort to further preserve the memory of the church, the congregation has carefully chosen several organizations to receive the proceeds once the building is sold for the asking price of $52,900. After all bills are paid, the sale proceeds will be divided between the Herscher United Methodist Church; Harbor House in Kankakee, a shelter which offers a full range of family violence programs; Hospice of Kankakee Valley, dedicated to helping terminally ill people and their families; Baby Fold in Normal, a United Methodist home for children; Cunningham Homes in Bloomington, a United Methodist residential facility for troubled and abused children; Redbird Mission in Kentucky, a United Methodist Mission in the Mountains of Kentucky and Evenglow Retirement Lodge in Pontiac.

The first church of Norton Township appears in public records in 1869 as leased to the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The church, which became known as "Brown's Church" is believed to have been the parent of the present church. When the railroad arrived in Buckingham, several area churches merged and Brown's church was moved from rural Buckingham into town.

The "Buckingham Charge" first appeared in the minutes of the old Central Illinois Conference in 1881. The Rev. Joe Bell served as the first pastor. At the turn of the century, the congregation had grown tremendously and a new church was built at the church's present location for a mere $175 to accommodate the flourishing membership. Under the leadership of the Rev. O.A.H. DeLaGardie, the new church was dedicated May 28, 1899.

For over 50 years, members of the Buckingham United Methodist Church gathered in this building to share their faith, enjoy fellowship among family and friends, celebrate life's many milestones and offer condolences during difficult periods of their lives.

SACRED HEART MISSION, HOPKINS PARK

Taken from the Lisieux News, May, 1997.

Sacred Heart Mission was started in September 1939 by sister Mary Adelaide Gagnon SSCM and Rev. T. U. Demarais. They were assisted by the associate priests from Saint Patrick's in Momence, the Claretian Priests from St. Jude Seminary, and other Sister Servants of the Holy Heart of Mary especially those who were already fully employed at Saint Patrick Academy Boarding and Day School for both grade and high school students.

This poor black mission had only two Catholics so every weekend, evangelization and catechetical instructions were in order for different home sites. Then in the summer, three all day vacation school centers had class, activities and food.

The first Mass was offered by Father Demarais on the feast of the Holy Rosary, 1939, in the public school and continued there until the church was built. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch gave permission to purchase land for a church on June 30, 1941. Labor and finances were provided by the generous people of St. Patrick Parish in Momence, from Chicago, and from Hopkins Park itself.

Easter Sunday, 1942, the first Mass was offered in the new church. With the help of volunteers and donations, the building has undergone many renovations and improvements and it is still being used! Father Demarais and his associates continued to serve Sacred Heart until 1968 when Fr. Joseph Buters was appointed the first resident pastor. Father Buters was followed by Fathers John Kosmal in 1974, Anthony Taschetta in 1977, Denis White in 1982 and James Heramb in 1987. Father Denis White returned in 1995 but is pastor at Saint Patrick's and now resides in Momence.

ARMY LIFE DURING WORLD WAR I

Excerpts written by Bernie Murphy and submitted by Harlan and Pauline Murphy.

On September 20, 1917, I left Kankakee, Illinois, to begin my army life, we arrived in Camp at Des Moines, Iowa, on the same day. When we got there we was taken to the barracks, we had no beds to sleep on and had no blankets to cover with until about midnight. The Lieutenant called us to go and get some blankets this was good news to us as it was getting cool without cover.

On May 14, 1918, we sailed from New York at 11:30 a.m. This day was my first time on the water, the first day did not bother me, but after than I was sea sick for the rest of the trip. On the morning of May 23rd, the boat was at a standstill in a bay we could see land, and several boats were around us. We was waiting for the tide to come in so we could get up the river to Bordeaux. We landed in Bordeaux at 6:30 p.m. On Decoration day (May 30th), there were a bunch of men taken from each Company to parade in Bordeaux.

We left this camp on June 3rd for we did not know where. we was put on French cars for two days. Then we stopped at a small place and hiked a ways and camped with the 108th Eng. This was the first of our Div. We had saw since we had landed. On June 21st we moved again. this was a two day march: on June 22 we reached our billets. This was in a small town named Yaucourt. We was getting closer to the front. we could hear the guns roar.

On July 19th, there was a school started in Allonville I was assigned to attend. This lasted until Aug. 4th. On the day we moved into this town, a German plane discovered us and Jerry shelled the town but he did not do any damage. We left this place on Aug. 4th for Cammon on the Somme River. We stopped overnight there and the next day we moved to Conta. We stayed in Conta until Aug. 8th. When we left there stayed overnight in some woods near the trenches. On Aug. 9th I and three more boys was sent to the trenches to get the locations of them so we could act as guides for the Company.

On the 16th we went to the front line and remained there for three days. arriving at Mouline woods on the 20th. This was where the Div. Was getting together. We left Mouline woods on the 24th and went to Amiens and entrained for the American sector. Arrived at Legna on the 25th and marched to a small town called Franviller. At this place I left the Co. To attend school again. The school was to be held at Luxenville but, on arriving at this place, we found no school as it had moved to another place.

On the night of Sept. 5 we began to move to the front. We had just got started when a truck came along and run into us; I was run over by it. I was then sent to the hospital and stayed there till Oct. 5th. I then started out to find my Co. Of which I had no trace of. I found an officer and twelve men that was looking for the same outfit I was. so we traveled together.

On Oct. 15th, I found my Co. It sure seemed good to me to be back with them again and to get some mail from home as I had not got any mail for a long time. On the morning of Oct. 16th. I was sent with three other boys from my Co. To go to the front line on patrol duty. We had just got to the lines when the Germans begin to shell it. They had thrown over quite a number of shells. but at last they got one to close and got me and my pardner. I was sent to the first aid station. From there I was sent back to a field hosp. And then to a base hospital at Vichy. I remained there until Nov. 15th. On Nov. 15th. I left Vichy enroute for the U.S. but owing to the base ports being full. we was stopped of at Base #7 near Tours and spent Thanksgiving Day there.

We were in hopes of reaching the states by Xmas. but we had given up all hopes then but on Dec. 8th we left #7 bound for Brest. We arrived there Dec. 9th. We remained in the hosp.. There for six days. On the 15th we went on board the Geo. Washington. This was the ship the President came to France on. it was on a Sunday morning we sailed from France.

The morning of Dec. 23rd we could see land, and n the evening we sailed into the harbor at Hoboken N.Y. We did not get off the boat that night. but on the morning of the 24th we was taken off the boat and put in ambulances and taken to a hosp.. In N.Y. city. The people of N.Y. was good to us. They would come in autos and take us out for rides around the city. I remained in N.Y. until Jan. 9th, 1919, I was then put on a red cross train with a bunch of wounded soldiers and taken to Camp Grant to be discharged.

I taken the first examination for my discharge on Jan. 12th and received my discharge Jan. 18. 1919. We could then come home and believe me we sure did come home.

EXPERIENCES OF YOUNGEST CO. L MEMBER

GEORGE SPARROW OF CHICAGO, ASSIGNED WITH KANKAKEE SOLDIERS

TELLS A THRILLING TALE

Tells of Battles Through Which 129th Infantry Participated; Personal Experiences

(Special to Republican).

New York, Feb. 3.—One of the youngest veterans of the war is George Sparrow, who just arrived in this city from France. Sparrow, who, after serving two years in the worst fighting of the war, is 17 years old, and enlisted at the age of 15, with the consent of his father, James H. Sparrow, 600 South Carpenter St., Chicago. He had tried to enlist at the tender age of 14, but even his strapping build could not get him in, and he had to wait for his chance to go over. He is now in Debarkation Hospital No. 3, recovering from shrapnel wounds in his left shoulder and knee.

Member of Co. L.

Telling of his experiences in the war, he said: "I sailed last November for France with the 129th Regiment, 33rd Div. Co. L., and arrived in Bordeaux on the 24th. We proceeded to Yorcourt, where we trained for two weeks with the British. We moved to Breton Woods, where we were in the reserve trenches, with the Anzacs, the finest fighters in the world.

I was in a distant dug-out, and, one day, while my company was moving ahead, I was sleeping in my dug-out and not awakened. Early morning I woke up to find myself alone, no human being in sight. I ran ahead positive that if the Americans moved, they moved ahead, and met a platoon of Anzacs. I had to cross a stream and tried to jump it. I landed 2 feet short of the edge and fell right into the river. The soldiers laughed, but took me into their barracks, where I spent the rest of the night and dried my clothes. They asked me to join their force, but I thanked them and continued in my search for my company. Soon after I found them, whereupon I got a lecture but no punishment due to confusion of orders.

Moved to Alberts Front.

We were then moved to the Alberts front, where we held a position near a French "L" track, long since unused, and which the Germans had bathed in gas. We held the lines until the Tommies came and attacked. Our regiment was sent to the Argonne woods on the 1st of September. My duties were changed to that of stretcher-bearer, a job just as dangerous and twice as responsible as that of "Dough boy."

In the Argonne Drive.

The great drive started on the 26th, and we begun immediately with big advances and big casualties. On the 26th, we were between Hill 304 and Dead Man's Hill, in a forest. Then for no apparent reason, our company was ordered to drop out of the ranks and stay in the gully, while the 316th, 317th and 318th went on to the battle. We slept that night in that gully, with the shells bursting all around, but believe me, we slept after the hiking and fighting we did that day. The next day it rained and we could not advance in time to relieve other companies, but we pushed ahead rapidly. In fact we found out that we went too rapidly, and fell into a trap at Horseshoe Bend, a hell of a machine gun nest. We retreated into the woods with many casualties and stayed there 5 days.

Acted as Stretcher Bearers.

Oct. 2nd, while the 132d was making an attack, we were ordered to advance 30 miles in one hour and bring up the necessary ammunition. We went so rapidly that one man dropped, and a Kankakee lad, Edward T. Bellison, and myself stayed behind as stretcher-bearers and helped him along.

We stayed all that night without protection and there I saw Co. K gassed so severely that 250 out of 250 were blinded by the mustard gas, and it was piteous the way they were crying and suffering, eaten up by that deadly gas. The 132d did not get ammunition, it was impossible to fulfill that order. Meanwhile my company ahead had gotten in the range of our own fire and quickly retreated. In two days, we caught up to the rest, with our wounded man, and we went into reserve trenches for three days. There I missed my pack, and went back for it without leave. For this I lost my position as stretcher-bearer and went into the ranks with the Kankakee boys with Corp. Enders, also of that city, the best corporal in the army. On the 10th of October, we moved in support of the 129th which had met with a serious disaster in its attack. The regiment needed four guides to station the incoming platoons in their positions and I was chosen for my platoon.

Shell Wounds Kankakeeans.

As I stood against a tree with my pal, Jennny Murphy, of Kankakee, a shell burst right behind me. I knew it was coming, but I had no time to move, and the fragments finished me. I was hit in the shoulder on the left side and a piece landed in my left knee. Murphy was hit in all the fingers of his right hand. I walked back to the R. A. P. where I was treated. Then from hospital to hospital until I came here. I am now feeling in good health, and expect to see Chicago soon. I am glad I went, and had my education on the battlefield, and expect to stay in the army."

COLUMBIA GIVES TO HER SON
THE ACCOLADE OF THE
NEW CHIVALRY OF HUMANITY

George Murphy of Co. L., 129th Infantry
SERVED WITH HONOR IN THE WORLD WAR
AND WAS WOUNDED IN ACTION

Finding such strong opposition to this bill by members of the legislature from various districts desirous of securing the hospital, a new bill known as House Bill No. 658, with several changes and broader in scope, was prepared and introduced March 24, 1877, and after a long struggle was passed by the state senate May 5, 1877, and by the house May 19, 1877, as amended by the senate.

The bill creating the institution was pushed through the house by D. C. Taylor, J. A. Joplin and C. Secrest, representatives of this district and through the senate by Senator Thomas P. Bonfield.

May 25, 1877, the legislature authorized Governor Cullom to appoint a board of seven commissioners to select a suitable location for a hospital to be known as the Illinois Eastern Hospital for the Insane, and in accordance with said resolution commissioners were named as follows:

John H. Adams, of Freeport, Stephenson county; William A. McConnell, of Richmond, McHenry county; A. P. Bartlett, of Peoria, Peoria county; Dr. William M. Garrard of Lawrenceville, Lawrence county; Myron C. Dudley, of Naperville, DuPage county; Dr. Joseph Robbins, of Quincy, Adams county, and John Thomas of St. Clair county.

Among the towns considered were: Gilman, Danville, Paxton, Tuscola, Pontiac, Paris and Kankakee. Kankakee with its river and exceptional shipping facilities was chosen as the most desirable location.

Great credit is due the committee of citizens of Kankakee, and their assistance was invaluable to the members of the Legislature from Kankakee in finally prevailing upon the commissioners to locate the hospital at Kankakee. The members of the committee were: Thomas P. Bonfield, D. C. Taylor, Emory Cobb, Andrew Kerr, G. V. Huling and James N. Orr.

Through the efforts of the state board of charities, the general assembly was induced to adopt the cottage system of buildings, or detached wards, so successful in Gleele, Belgium.

The first board of trustees consisted of J. H. Clough, president, Cook county; William Red-dick, La Salle county; and W. F. Murphy, Douglass county. Col. Haswell C. Clarke of Kankakee was secretary and treasurer of the board.

Major J. R. Willet of Chicago was selected as the architect and the first buildings were erected in 1879 by Contractor James Lillie of Kankakee, and since that time constant additions have been made until at present there are on the grounds twenty cottages for the use of the patients, besides eighteen wing or main building wards, and fifty-two other buildings for various purposes.

Dr. Richard S. Dewey was the first superintendent, receiving his appointment August 13, 1879, and to him was entrusted largely the perfection of the cottage system.

There is but little restraint in use throughout the hospital and the classification of patients is easily effected by assigning them to different cottages. The diversion of the mind in household duties affords healthy employment to many of the inmates of the cottages, on the male as well as on the female side of the institution. The different industries, such as the making of brooms, scrub brushes, harness, the caning of chairs, repairing of shoes, printing, etc., gives employment to a number of the inmates aside from those who work in the garden, farm, hot-houses and on the lawn. The hospital is well equipped in every way for the care of the -inmates.

The farm consists of one thousand acres, one hundred fifty acres in lawn and the balance in farm and garden. The garden is very productive and furnishes a large part of the vegetables which are required at the institution.

There is a library of three thousand volumes, with the leading magazines, which furnish abundant reading material for the patients, and a medical library of 1,312 books.

The grounds have a beautiful frontage on the Kankakee river and are among the handsomest of those of any public institution in the United States.

The first patient was admitted to the institution December 4, 1879. The total number of patients in the institution January 1, 1880, was 23; January 1, 1884, 500; January 1, 1888, 1,556; January 1, 1893, 1,850 and at the present time nearly 2,300.

A handsome chapel and amusement hall has been added. The lower portion is used for dancing hall and gymnasium; the upper portion for chapel and theatre, is furnished with the latest pattern opera chairs, and has a seating capacity of 950.

The competent and efficient medical staff consists of the superintendent and eight assistant physicians.

A well equipped pathological laboratory and an elaborate X-ray machine afford facilities for scientific research.

Dr. Dewey as superintendent was succeeded by Dr. S. V. Clevenger, March 8, 1893, and he by 1)r. Clarke Gapen, appointed July 12, 1893, and remained in charge until March 26, 1897, when Dr. William G. Stearns took charge and held the office until February 1, 1899. Dr. J. C. Corbus was appointed superintendent at the latter date and is the present incumbent.

The board of trustees at the present time (1905) is composed of the following: Almet Powell, Iroquois county, president; C. E. Robinson, Kankakee county, and Patrick Whalen, Ford county. C. R. Miller. secretary and treasurer.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Agricultural Fairs—Kankakee County Agricultural Society Organized 1856—Kankakee District Fair Organized June 8, 1891—Its Officers.

The Kankakee County Agricultural Society was organized in 1856, and the honor of suggesting the formation is probably to be credited to Elkanah Gay of the township of Rockville. The first officers of the society were:

President, Charles Dashiell.

Vice-President, R. H. Enos.

Treasurer, C. R. Starr.

Secretary, J. M. Perry.

Executive Committee: Russell Seager, H. S. Bloom, J. B. Hawkins, H. R. Titcomb, Ezra Huntley, Jr., Francis Seguin, J. E. Labrie, .T. W. Schobey, D. T. Van Meter, John Kile, W. Haslett, R. Ashley, L. Gubtail, Lyman Wooster and .T. W. Burgess.

The aggregate amount of cash premiums offered the first year of the existence of the society was $125, the highest and only premium of five dollars being offered for the best five acres of winter wheat.

At the first fair Mrs. Helen Paddock received a diploma for the best roll of butter and the best lace work, and Mrs. Annie Warner a diploma for the best hand-made suit of boy's clothes, the suit being for James W. Paddock, now clerk of the senate of this state. Originally there were sixty life members.

In 1882 the fair was having a hard struggle for existence. Milo Barnard of Manteno was president and H. S. Bloom of Kankakee the secretary. Through their efforts about one hundred additional life memberships were subscribed for at $15 each, which paid the encumbrance on the fifteen acres of ground, which then constituted the fair grounds. Although the mortgage was paid the fair continued to struggle for existence for many years.

To avoid contracting indebtedness all premiums were offered with the understanding that the expenses of each fair should be paid out of the receipts and the remainder should be divided pro rata according to the premiums awarded. Under this arrangement for many years usually only a percentage of the premiums offered were paid, ranging from 40 to 90 per cent. The management of the fair was vested in its officers and an executive committee consisting of two from each township. These officers and committee were elected on the fairgrounds during the afternoon of the second day of the fair, and every person purchasing a family ticket and all life members were entitled to vote at this election.

In 1890 after a spirited contest, the young men carried the election, electing Len. Small, president: William Cooper, vice-president, and Leon Hay, secretary. They immediately went to work to place the fair on a sound financial basis and organized a stock company of $3,000 capital, divided into shares of $15 each and invited each life member to exchange his life membership for a share of stock in the new organization, which a large majority of them did. Largely through the efforts of the secretary, Leon Hay, the additional stock was subscribed for, and on March 27th, 1891, the society was incorporated, and on June 8th organized as the Kankakee Fair Association: The following officers were elected: Len. Small, president; William Cooper, vice-president; Leon Hay, secretary; I. B. Hanna, treasurer, Milton C. Grimes, superintendent, and G. W. Barnard, Azariah Buck, T. C. Schobey, D. S. McKinstry, and D. C. Taylor, additional directors. The first fair under the new organization proved a financial success. All premiums were guaranteed to be paid in full.

Cash to the amount of $1,000 was received from the sale of stock and $1,200 spent in remodeling what is now the old agricultural hall. The total receipts of this fair, aside from the sale of stock, amounted to $2,500, and the premiums and all other expenses, aside from improvements, $2,350.

In September of the same year, the capital stock of the association was increased to $5,000. The next year additional improvements were made. The receipts and disbursements of the Kankakee Fair have steadily increased from year to year. In 1902 the name was changed to the Kankakee District Fair Association and the territory made to include all counties in Illinois and Indiana bordering on Kankakee county. The capital stock was also increased to $10,000. During the past six years $16,000 have been expended for improvements, including the enlarging of the fairgrounds by the purchase of ten acres of land.

The Kankakee District Fair is now the most prosperous, strongest financially and best attended of any fair in its class in existence to-day.

The present (1905) officers are: T. C. Schobey, Union Hill, president; William Cooper, Kankakee, vice-president; Len. Small, Kankakee, secretary; W. J. Brock, Kankakee, treasurer; D. S. McKinstry, Kankakee, general superintendent.; C. R. Miller, Kankakee, superintendent races and attractions. Additional directors, Emory Cobb, Fred Mann and James Garrett.

The total amount paid in premiums, attractions, permanent improvements and other expenses was $14,070.42; gate receipts were $11,067.35; total receipts, $15,537.22.

CHAPTER XXV.

Kankakee County Gives Her Quota to Nation's Defense—History of Companies Organized in Kankakee or in Which. Her Defenders Were a Part.

CIVIL WAR.

The conspicuous valor of the rank and file who represented Kankakee county in the Civil war must fire the pride and appeal to the gratitude of all who now or ever shall dwell within these boundaries. With their knapsacks across their backs its volunteers strode through the greatest battles, undertook the longest marches. met the demands of the greatest emergencies. and were officered by as noble and skilled disciplinarians as any who helped to maintain the unity of the nation.

The firing upon Fort Sumter, which ushered in this second greatest event in American history. which now has become fixed and immovable in its settings of military genius, enormous fatality, and many sided significance, aroused nowhere keener indignation than in Kankakee county. Enthusiastic meetings were held in Kankakee and many other towns, people professing different creeds, different shades of political belief, and occupying different places in the world of labor and influence, uniting unanimously upon the common ground of the Union's integrity. Irrespective of the men who went to Chicago and Joliet to enlist, and were credited from those centers, the roster of the war contained the names of seventeen hundred and sixty-four men from Kankakee county, represented in forty-two regiments. The least number in any regiment was one, and the greatest number four hundred and two—the Seventy-sixth Illinois Volunteer Infantry.

The first soldier to enlist from the county was Alfred (Fred) Bernier, private, and later sergeant in Company C, Nineteenth Illinois Volunteer Infantry. Fred was a whole souled, merry boy, popular at home and in tented field, and as brave a lad as ever shouldered a musket. He was a little fellow, and as his feet were too small for the regulation army shoes, he wore those made by Fluke of Kankakee in violation even of the command of so grim and relentless a soldier as General Hancock.

In its martial annals the county arose to the standard created by its fertility and established by such men as the Cavalier de la Salle and the bravest of the French-Canadian traders. These people found nothing to dwarf their ideals, but everything to feed and encourage them. And so it happened that one of the fairest counties within a state which sheltered the waking dreams of the Great Emancipator, absorbed somewhat of his singleness of purpose and his commanding intolerance of injustice. The stories told of its men in the midst of the fierce passions of war are not surpassed in pathos, nobility and courage. Their blood watered the battlefields of Donelson, Pea Ridge, Shiloh, Corinth, Vicksburg, Murfreesboro, Resaca, Stone River, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Fort Blakely, Mission Ridge, Atlanta, Charleston, Gettysburg, and many others, and its soldiers were of those comprising the three great divisions of the Union side, the armies of the Tennessee, Cumberland and Potomac. From every battlefield came the maimed and wounded children of the county, inciting fresh sacrifices and new determination, and the depleted ranks constantly were renewed by those who had staid at home to anxiously watch the conflict from afar.

Below, the names and equipment of the various regiments are given and their special work outlined. Some of the companies which won imperishable renown were almost wholly recruited from Kankakee county. It is forty years since the close of the war. The ranks of the veterans are fast thinning. The stories around reunion campfires are told in voices weak from the stress of many years, yet vibrant with the memories which surge and thrill. All good intent bath its compensations, and the graves in the local cities of the dead, the monuments which perpetuate human sacrifice and sublimity at Gettysburg, the unmarked mounds at Andersonville, the crippled soldiers, orphaned children, widowed wives and desolate hearthstones, bespeak the innate sacrificial grandeur which illumines and partially redeems the hideous ingloriousness of war.

We remember as if it were yesterday, that, notwithstanding the heated difference of opinion of our citizens as to National politics, there were comparatively few who did not espouse with earnestness the cause of the Union. The following will suffice to illustrate the spontaneous and patriotic uprising of our people, and the rapidity with which all things military were conducted:

On the evening of April 15, 1861, the following despatch was received by Gov. Yates:

"His Excellency, Governor Richard Yates," Springfield, Ill.

"Call made on you by mail tonight for six regiments for immediate service."

(Signed) SIMON CAMERON,
Sec'y of War.

On the same day Governor Yates issued his proclamation convening the legislature on the 23d, and naming as the subjects for its consideration the following:

"The most perfect organization and equipment of the militia of the State, and placing the same on a war footing and to render assistance to the General Government in preserving the Union."

In answer to the governor's call for six regiments, over ten thousand volunteers of the state tendered their services. There were no serviceable arms at the arsenal at Springfield.

April 19, 1861, Governor Yates was ordered to send as soon as mustered a brigadier general with four regiments to, or near, Cairo, Ill.

On the same date, Governor Yates ordered Gen. Swift, of Chicago, to proceed to Cairo as quickly as possible with as strong a force as he could raise.

Forty-eight hours after the receipt of the despatch by Gen. Swift, he left Chicago for Cairo with a force of live hundred and ninety-five men and four six-pound pieces of artillery.

April 24, 1861, Governor Yates telegraphed Colonel B. M. Prentiss, at Cairo, that the Steamers C. E. Hillman and John S. Perry were about to leave St. Louis with arms and munitions of war for the confederates.

On the same evening and the following morn-
