EDITOR'S NOTE

It is with regret that we announce our decision to declare a moratorium on the Quarterly edition of Vol. 9, No's. 3 and 4. The Society's past inability to secure a means of publishing "The A-Ki-Ki," together with changes in the Office of Editor, has made such decision mandatory. We wish to thank you for your patience and endurance during this critical period.

We shall begin afresh with Vol. 10, No. 1 in February 1980.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have so willingly contributed their time and effort toward the publishing of this edition, Vol. 9, No. 2. - Mr. Ed Virgin for his article and other timely information - Ms. Helen Nourie and those who assisted her in the copying of the 1860 Federal Census of Kankakee County, Ms. Alicia Dupuis for her help in proof reading, and to both Ms. Nourie and Ms. Dupuis for their assistance in assembling this edition. I would also like to express my appreciation to all whose help was offered.

The following is an article which appeared in the July, 1975, Issue No. 15 of GENEALOGY," by Willard Heiss, a publication of the Genealogy Section of the Indiana Historical Society.

NATURALIZATION RECORDS

Naturalization records are often something of a will-o-the-wisp. At least in Indiana early entries may be buried in unindexed volumes.

There was naturalization of citizens during Indiana's territorial days, but I have not found such a record. I have made cursory searches of indexes and court records themselves--with no success.

When circuit courts were organized (1816) the record of naturalization was to be found in the Circuit Court Order Books. These records are in the office of the County Clerk. From 1853 through 1873 concurrent jurisdiction was held by the Court of Common Pleas. The record can be found in the order books of the Pleas Court.

In the 1870s Superior Courts were established in some counties. The Superior Court held concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court and the naturalization record may be found in their order books--mostly unindexed.

In many counties beginning in the 1850s a record book was kept in the Clerk's Office called Declaration of Intention. The title will vary--sometimes it is called Petition for Naturalization or simply Naturalization Record.

The information will parallel that which is the order book and is usually more detailed.

For some unknown reason, Franklin County, Ind. has a separate book for naturalization record beginning in 1826. From p.3 of that record: March 13, 1828" ..personally appeared before me, Enoch McCarty, Clerk of the Franklin Circuit Court, James Barber an alien who intends to become a citizen of the United States and made the following declaration.... That he was born in the County of Sligo in the Kingdom of Ireland on the 18th day of May 1777, that he is aged 49 years and upwards, that he sailed from Belfast a seaport town of said kingdom on the 11th day of April 1811, that he arrived at Norfolk in the State of Virginia on the 20th of June 1811, from whence he moved to the town of Brookville in the county of Franklin ... and arrived on the first day of February 1815, that it is his bone-fide intention to become a citizen.."

From the Vigo County, Ind., Circuit Court Order Book 2, p. 435, is found a less fullsome entry: March Term 1830, "In open Court personally appears John Angier who on oath declares that he emigrated from England and arrived in the United States in the year 1820 being in the seventeenth year of his age and since that time has continued to reside in the United States..."

A few statistics are available to give some notion of the number of naturalizations. Tippecanoe County, Ind. (Lafayette the county seat) was organized in 1826. From a survey made from 1834 to 1906--4,810 entries were found in the order books in the Clerk's Office. (An index to the Tippecanoe County Naturalization Records, 1834-1850 appears in the Illiniana Genealogist, Summer & Fall issues 1968).

In 1906 the naturalization record was no longer recorded in the order books. Besides the record, Declaration of Intention, there was an additional book, Petition and Record. These books were used until the Federal Court took jurisdiction of naturalization in 1929. Records prior to 1929 remain in the Clerk's Office of the respective counties. These are permanent records.

The Declaration of intention is a record of the alien's intent to become a citizen, showing name, age, birthplace, dates of arrival and declaration.

The Petition and Record (title may vary) is a record of naturalization papers granted, showing date of application, name and address of applicant, renouncement of foreign allegiance, affidavits of witnesses and court order admitting citizenship.

Following is a summary of an entry in the Declaration of Intention Book 4, p.66, Marion County, Indiana--

October 31, 1908, Jens Peter Rasmussen, aged 34, a blacksmith 512" tall, weight 128, fair complexion with brown eyes and gray hair.... was born in Copenhagen, Denmark on Feb. 15, 1875. Now resides 1310 Bismark Ave., Indianapolis. Emigrated from Glasgow, Scotland an vessel, "Caledonia" arrived at New York October 15, 1905 ... renounces forever allegiance to Frederick VII, King of Denmark.

The usefulness of this record is self-evident. But there are problems. First, you must locate the record books. When you've done that, chances are you'll find they have no index. LABOR OMNIA VINCIT

Some further details about naturalization at the turn of the century came to my attention while perusing Law and Business Pointers (Chicago, 1904)

"Two years after filing his declaration as a citizen, an alien must declare his intention to become a citizen of the United States before a Federal Court, or a local Court of Record, or the Clerk of either such Courts. This declaration entitles him to vote in most of the States. He must take the following oath before the Court.

'I, Jacob M. Becker, do swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and that

"Two years after filing his declaration of intention, having been a resident of the United States for five years, he again appears in court giving written proof that he has been long enough in the United States to become a citizen, and make oath of his allegiance as a citizen, accompanied by the oath of a witness, giving proof of his residence and moral character.

"If an alien has served in the army or navy of the United States and can show papers of an honorable discharge, he can be naturalized after having lived one year in any State or Territory....

"A person having arrived in the United States under the age of eighteen years and having continued such residence until the time of his application for citizenship may at the age of twenty-one years, having lived in the United States five years, inclusive of the three years of his minority, be admitted as a citizen without making the formal declaration.

"If an alien should die after he has legally filed his declaration and taken the necessary oath of affirmation, but before he is actually naturalized, then his widow and children are entitled to all the rights and privileges of citizenship upon taking the required oaths of affirmation which would have been required of them.

"Children of naturalized persons, if under twenty-one years of age at the time of the naturalization of their parents and residing in the United States, are considered as citizens thereof; and children of citizens of the United States, though born in a foreign country.

"A person who has been naturalized according to law is entitled to a certificate, which is issued under the hand of the Clerk and seal of the Court. Such certificate may in certain circumstances be of much importance...."

As mentioned above there was a change in the order of things in 1906. Because of the lack of uniformity in procedures and in the application of law in the variety of courts throughout the country it was necessary to clarify the law. This formulated court procedure in granting citizenship and placed administrative supervision in a newly created Bureau of immigration and Naturalization. Copies of naturalization certificates were required to be filed with the Bureau, fees were fixed, uniform forms introduced, and each petition was required to be accompanied by an official lawful arrival certificate.

After 1929 the Federal District Courts had sole jurisdiction of naturalization matters.

The immigration and Naturalization Service was first under Secretary of Treasury, then Commerce and now the Department of Justice. The Field organization of the Service consists of four regional offices: Northeast, Southeast, Northwest, and Southwest. They direct the operations of 33 district offices. "The regional offices, created 3 January 1955, provide a layer of supervisory and administrative organization operating between the district offices and Central office. The district offices (cont'd. next p.)

handle all immigration and naturalization matters arising within their geographic jurisdiction."

The office in this area is located 507 State Street, Hammond, IN 46320.

With the enactment of the comprehensive Act of 1906 an index was created in the Central Office of the Service of the naturalization of all aliens in the United States. With enough identifying information it is now possible to verify the naturalization records of persons who have been admitted to citizenship since that date.

Files relating to persons naturalized from 1906 September 27 through 1956 April 1 are maintained in the Central Office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Washington DC 20520. After that date records are in the custody of the field offices.

There are millions of files of various kinds in the field offices, in the Central Office, and in various Record Centers throughout the United States. These records contain highly personal information concerning the individual to whom they relate - marriages, divorces, family relationships, addresses, employment, income and allegations of criminal or other misconduct. The disclosure of such information obviously would be objectionable, possibly even harmful, to many of the affected individuals. The Service is confronted with a conflict between the public's right-to-know and the individual's right-to-privacy. Unless there is an overriding public interest for making an exception any information requested will not be disclosed if such disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

In requesting a record, the searcher must provide specific information as to names, dates, subject matter and location on a prescribed form, so as to enable the government employee to locate the requested material, accompanied with a fee of $3 (this fee may have gone up since 1975). The request must be submitted to a district office.

In the matter of consulting naturalization records in the custody of the courts the official restrictive policy applicable to the issuance of copies and information from naturalization records was changed and liberalized in December 1972 by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. This is set forth in Form M-154.

Copies of naturalization records and related information may now be legally obtained from clerks of court according to information from the Service. Clerks of court are still prohibited from issuing certifications, but they may furnish uncertified information.

Clerks of court are prohibited by law from making and issuing certifications of a naturalization record or and part thereof, except upon order of the Court. The Immigration and Naturalization Service is authorized by law to make such certifications when needed in any judicial proceeding, or to comply with a State or Federal Statute. Persons requiring such certifications should be advised to submit application Form N-585 to the appropriate Service Office. A supply of Form N-585 is available to clerks of court or to other interested persons from the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The prohibition against the issuance of certifications by clerks of court does not extend to the furnishing of uncertified information. Clerks of court may furnish such information orally, in writing, by printing, or by photocopy or other reproductive process, in accordance with the rules of the court, without consent of or approval of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. In the same vein as the preceeding article, the following by Mr. Edward Virgin, our local Researcher, recounts his bemusing adventures through the Illinois version of the "Naturalization Maze."

GROPING THROUGH THE
LABYRINTH OF NATURALIZATION

This researcher's experience at the Kankakee County courthouse in an attempt to extract genealogical information from the naturalization records, seems to fit an all too well known pattern.

I was first directed to go to the Probate Clerk's office where the clerks appeared to be of such an age that they could not have been employed for more than 5 or 6 years at the most. They were busy, pleasant, efficient, and appeared to genuinely want to be helpful.

When I asked to see the naturalization records, one of them reached below the counter and brought out two large ledger books. Upon examination it was determined that they contained an alphabetized listing of names and dates where individuals had received their naturalization certificates and as such had no other genealogical data.

Having had some little experience, I explained to the young lady that before a person could receive his naturalization certificate, he had to first fill out both a Declaration of Intention and a Petition for Naturalization, and that these two documents contained a wealth of genealogical information and were what I was most anxious to see. No one had heard of these two documents and were very sure that such were not at the courthouse. When I persisted, they agreed among themselves, and then told me that they must have been taken from the courthouse when the Federal Courts took over the responsibilities of naturalization, or else they had been burned in a fire that had occurred at the courthouse some years back. That concluded the meeting, with the researcher standing there wondering how the "servants of the people" coped in those courthouses that had never enjoyed a fire - if such prodigy exists in the system.

A short time later I noted that the names and dates of naturalization, as published in the local genealogical society's quarterlies, contained some duplications. The names and dates were the same, but were recorded in two different books and on differently numbered pages. Listing two of these instances and armed with this information, I returned to the courthouse. The nice girls in the Probate office were of no more help this time than on my earlier visit. In a spirit of helpfulness and an effort "to get this guy out of their hair," they suggested I try the Circuit Clerk's Office.

Here the help were also young, pretty, busy, efficient, and gave the appearance of wanting to be of assistance. However, they too could not provide an answer to the enigma and upon realizing that I was not about to leave, suggested I see the Circuit Clerk himself.

This researcher has a speaking acquaintance with the Circuit Clerk and knew that he had been in office for at least ten years. After a reasonable wait of 20-30 minutes, the Circuit Clerk was available and upon being told the problem, said he would have to go downstairs to the vault. He soon returned with volumes numbered 1 through 4 and presented them to me for my perusal. To my surprise these volumes, with an alphabetized index in the front of each, were the Petitions for Naturalization with the genealogical information to warm the heart of any researcher. But the names and or numbered pages did not explain the duplications I had discovered. So when the busy Circuit Clerk breezed back through and asked the researcher if they answered his questions and received a negative reply, he said, "I'll take them back and get the other ones." He soon returned with four similar ledger books numbered 1 through 4 and turned them over to me. Again, to the researcher's surprise these volumes, with an alphabetized index in the front of each, were the Declarations of intention for Naturalization containing the genealogical information that is so eagerly sought after by so many genealogists. True the names and numbered pages did not explain the duplications of the original problem, but nevertheless this researcher came away with a real sense of accomplishment.

Now, over a year later, having advised another genealogist exactly how to go about finding such records, imagine my chagrin when this genealogist came to me with the story that he had driven all the way into town, gone to the courthouse and upon inquiry was told, "We don't have such records, they must have been taken to Springfield when the Federal Courts took over responsibility, " etc. etc., etc.
